Eagle Scout is the highest rank in the Boy Scouts of America scouting program. With this achievement, Justin is among the small percentage of young men in the Boy Scouts of America who have reached this prestigious level. Since the inception of the Eagle Scout award in 1912, only about 2 percent of eligible Scouts have earned this honor.

Justin's Eagle Scout project consisted of organizing a beach clean-up and developing and overseeing the construction and installation of two green fly traps at the Cedar Beach Marina and Golf Course that will replace traps that were destroyed during Superstorm Sandy.
